[7]

Unless the sale is advertised and announced as an unrestricted sale, or a sale without reserve, owners reserve the right to bid.

[8]

The Company exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly and endeavors therein and also at the actual time of the sale to point out any error, defect, or imperfection, but guaranty is not made either by the owner or the Company of the correctness of the description, genuineness, authenticity or condition of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing or imperfection not noted or pointed out. Every lot is sold "as is" and without recourse.

[9]

Buying or bidding by the Company for responsible parties on orders transmitted to it by mail, telegraph, or telephone, if conditions permit, will be faithfully attended to without charge. Any purchases so made will be subject to the foregoing conditions of sale. Orders for execution by the Company should be given with such clearness as to leave no room for misunderstanding. Not only should the lot number be given, but also the name of the object, and a bid on several objects catalogued under a single number should be stated to be so much per piece unless the description contains the notation "[Lot.]", in which case the bid should be stated to be so much FOR THE LOT. If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Company, a deposit must be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

[10]

All articles sold will be subject, in addition to the purchase price, to the New York Sales Tax to be paid by the purchaser, unless the purchaser delivers to the Company the requisite certificate that the article was purchased for re-sale.

[11]

The Company will afford every facility for the employment of carriers and packers by the purchasers, but will not be responsible for any damage arising from the acts of such carriers and packers.

Foreword

ANALYSIS of a subject so primed with controversial matter as is early American glass can be authoritative only if supported by intensive study and patient research in the particular field. We feel, therefore, that a catalogue prepared with the invaluable assistance of such an acknowledged authority as William Mitchell Van Winkle can claim reliability and educational value.

Mr. Van Winkle's collection is well known and needs no introduction here. The present sale is the result of a decision on his part to reduce the vast accumulation of rare American glass contained in his residence at Rye, New York, and it consists, in the main, of duplicates of pieces he intends to retain in his collection. Among the glass offered for sale are some of the finest known specimens of the Stiegel type in blue and amethyst, rare flasks and bottles in a variety of colors from the Ohio and Pennsylvania districts, and a fine assortment of three-mold glass in the rarest patterns and colors.

Regarding period and district, the futility of attempting a rigid classification of American glass is generally conceded; therefore for purposes of attribution the method adopted in the present catalogue is as follows: the collection has been subdivided under general headings such as Stiegel and Stiegel type, Ohio and Mid-western, Blown Three-mold, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, New York and New England, and Historical Flasks. Thus the dangers of arbitrary attribution have been avoided, and the field left open for the free play of opinion.

Body slightly ovoid and vertically paneled from shoulder to base. Contracted neck with flaring downturned rim; base depressed and ribbed. Height, $7\frac{3}{4}$ inches; diameter, $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches

Note: Authorities are agreed that Stiegel made blue paneled vases of this type. These figure usually as the pièce de resistance of a glass collection, and without doubt represent the apex of early American glass-making. Five of these important vases were included in the Herbert Delavan Mason sale at these Galleries in December, 1932, but as far as we know, this is the only specimen in this shade of cobalt blue.

This vase is known to have remained in the possession of the Mynderse family of Schnectady, N. Y. since 1853 and possibly longer (see the accompanying letter).
